

TAMPICO HELD BY THE REBELS

Captured After Bloodiest Battle of Revolution

HUNDREDS KILLED IN FIGHT

Desperate Fighting in the Streets — Huerta's Forces Make Determined Resistance, but Are Compelled to Evacuate Place — Gigantic Army Movement in New York—Transports Being Loaded.

Vera Cruz, May 14—Tampico, after thirty-six hours of fighting, has fallen into the hands of the rebels. The end came yesterday afternoon when the rebel infantry led by General Gonzalez, made a general assault upon the city from the suburbs, which they captured earlier in the day. Hand to hand fighting in the streets followed during which hundreds fell. It is not known what the casualties were, but they surely run into a horrifying total. The defenders finally withdrew from the city, leaving a small force to cover their retreat. It was reported that the rebels overtook the main body of the federalists in retreat, causing them to flee into the Panuco river, where many drowned. General Zaragoza, the federal commander, is reported to have escaped.

News of Fall Confirmed.

Washington, May 14—Tampico has fallen. Final confirmation of the evacuation of the federal stronghold after many weeks of fighting came to the navy department last night in dispatches from Admiral Mayo and forwarded here by General Badger. Mayo stated his informants came to his flag ship nine miles from the city, bringing the news that the federalists had withdrawn by railroad late yesterday. Other dispatches state the rebels assaulted the town at 1 P. M., fighting their way to the main plaza, where they met stubborn resistance from the federalists, who made their final stand in the abandoned Southern hotel, where sharpshooters from behind pillars picked off scores of rebels and halted the advance some time. The federal gunboats Bravo and Seargoza, after standing by to cover the evacuation, dropped down the river and anchored near the foreign war ships.

Must Crush Huerta.

Representatives of the United States in coming mediation proceedings held a conference with the secretary of the state department yesterday and received their credentials. It has been ascertained beyond question that the American representatives have been advised that the one condition for final settlement with Huerta is that he step down and out. This Huerta has frequently declared he will not do. The war cloud is not diminishing and there still remain several questions of national honor to be settled before the mediator can get down to the main proposition before them.

Gigantic Army Movement.

New York, May 14—An army movement of gigantic proportions was announced here yesterday, when 20,000 rounds of rifle ammunition, huge quantities of artillery shells, tons of supplies and 12,000 tons of storage for horses and mules were ordered from the army reserve base on Governors Islands here to Galveston, Texas. Last night, hundreds of men under electric light were loading two transports, City of Memphis, and Minnesota, which had steam up, all ready and were expected to leave some time today.

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY

Great Desire to See "Ita" Perform Her Wonderful Mental Feats.

"Ita" is it in Clearfield this week. Around town you hear more discussion about the young mentalist who is appearing at the opera house this week than you do about court news and the circus combined. Last night the opera house was packed, before 8 o'clock, every seat and available space permitted by law being filled, and it was estimated that between 500 and 800 were refused admission. As Ita's engagement progresses she becomes more mystifying and fascinating and her remarkable answers to questions border on the supernatural.

Last night she gave her performance standing in the midst of the audience in order to show that no stage mechanism, wires, etc., are used. Carvette, the acrobat, and the feature picture, "Ludile Love," were also highly entertaining.

THE CIRCUS TOMORROW

Jones Bros. and Wilson's Shows Will Be in Clearfield Tomorrow

The intense passion for original production and infinite detail, at any cost of time, talent or money, are common place knowledge among all well informed amusement goers. J. Augustus Jones, E. H. Jones and H. G. Wilson, to offering to the public Jones Bros. and Wilson's Wild Animal circus, will outstrip all other competitors in novelty of production and elaborate presentation, thereby setting a pace all other amusement enterprises will find extremely difficult in equalling.

They have stopped at nothing which would add, be it ever so imperceptibly, to the verisimilitude of scenery, settings or the realistic effects of human activity in the vast arena, or to the significant comprehensive equipment for a notable production of many new and novel ideas never before presented to the amusement going public.

This brilliant and remarkable succession of innumerable and heretofore unknown wonders, is found in two distinct departments, one representing domestic trained animals, and the other trained wild animals, consisting of lions, leopards, tigers, elephants, bears, wolves, hyenas, zebras etc., comprising what is beyond question the most valuable collection of wild beast inn existence.

The most valuable wild animal in the world is embraced in this collection. A midget Hippopotamus, the first one ever brought to this country. Jones Bros. and Wilson's show are indeed fortunate in securing one of these much sought after attractions. This circus will exhibit in Clearfield tomorrow (Friday).

Long Drawn Out Case.

The case of Beyer & Co. vs. Mrs. Ella J. Mountz, began in civil court Monday, dragged through the following two days and is expected to be given to the jury this afternoon. Beyer & Co. sued Mrs. Mountz on a contract for repainting and remodeling her house at Smithmill, the company's bill amounting to $3000.

True Hospitality.

I pray you, O excellent wife, not to cumber yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man or this woman who has alighted at our gate, nor a bedchamber made ready at too great a cost. These things, if they are curious in, they can get for a dollar at any village. But let this stranger, if he will, in your looks, in your accent and behavior, read your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, which he cannot buy at any price in any village or city, after which he may well travel fifty miles and dine sparsely and sleep hard in order to behold. Certainly, let the board be spread and let the bed be dressed for the traveler, but let not the emphasis of hospitality lie in these things. Honor to the house where they are simple to the verge of hardship, so that there the intellect is awake and reads the laws of the universe.—Emerson.

Astors in China.

Music as a profession is not now regarded as wholly reputable, but it is common to hear men sing snatches of theater songs as they go along the streets or country lanes, and amateur instrumentalists are many both among the poor and the better educated classes. We listened once, almost entranced, to a boatman on the inner waters of the Chekiang province declaiming with clear, strong voice and tune and rhythm for more than an hour at night a poem of short cantos in praise of Buddha. * * * It is a common thing at Peking, the chief home of actors, to see a man standing with his face against the city wall and yelling like one demented. He is an actor practicing his part and strengthening his voice.—Moule's "The Chinese People."

LOCAL BANKS IN NEW SYSTEM

Both Clearfield Institutions in Big Company

THEY ARE LISTED IN CLASS A

Only Banks Whose Combined Capital and Surplus Exceeds $190,000 Come in That Class—Other Banks in This Vicinity Are in Federal District No. 3.

All the national banks in the district which have a combined capital and surplus exceeding $190,000 will come in that class. This will take in banks from all the large towns in federal district No. 3.

Below are some of the names of banks in the class of Philadelphia banks:

BALLOTS ARE READY

They Will Be Apportioned and Sent Out at Once.

The last of the 80,000 ballots which will be used at the primary election next Tuesday were delivered to the county commissioners this morning, and as quickly as possible the several districts of the county will be supplied with their allotted number of ballots.

As the primary election will be held next Tuesday the time within which the ballots must be distributed is short, but they will be found at the various polls next Tuesday morning.

Saved by Artificial Breathing.

Dr. S. F. Derionjinsky, a Russian surgeon, reports the case of a peasant of twenty-one who, following an attack of probably diphtheritic origin, was stricken with paralysis. After two weeks of total paralysis some movements of the arms appeared, but a few days later respiratory trouble began. The breathing rose to forty to the minute and became superficial, with momentary stops. It was necessary to resort to artificial respiration. With the assistance of pupils in the primary school this was kept up day and night from Feb. 5 to Feb. 20. On the latter day the patient began breathing naturally, but difficulty in swallowing arose about the same time. On Feb. 28 it became necessary to begin artificial respiration again. This was maintained until March 1, when natural breathing returned, and the patient recovered.

Thackeray's Criticism.

In "Bar, Bat and Bit," by the Hon. Sir Edward Chaudes Leigh, is the following Thackeray story: Thackeray and others were great frequenters of Evans', in Covent Garden, kept by Paddy Green, where the most beautiful glee used to be sung. There was a little coterie there, and I was honored by being allowed to join that coterie. We used to devour chops baked potatoes and other adjuncts to a homely supper after the theater. One night I found Thackeray alone at the table when up came a small, obsequious gentleman, who rubbed his hands together and addressed Thackeray with the most fulsome compliments. When he passed on I said to Thackeray, "Pray tell me who is that?" His answer was, "He calls himself an artist, but he paints as much in butter as he does in oil."

A Private Dance.

Invitations have been issued for a private dance to be given at the Clearfield driving park Thursday evening, May 14, by John Payne. Dancing to 12 P. M. Subscription, 75 cents. Music by the Gulls. Floor is in good condition.

THEY'RE FOR MILLER

Political Gathering Held at the Dime-ling Wednesday Afternoon.

There was a political gathering of some significance in Clearfield Wednesday, at which men of various occupations were to be seen. It is said that the meeting was called in the interests of Dr. S. J. Miller, of Madera, Republican candidate for state senator.

It is evident that all is not smooth sailing in the Republican ranks, and the conference yesterday may or not have its influence on the primaries next Tuesday, but it is sure to leave some sore spots in the Republican party.

VENOMOUS LEECHES.

A Perilous Experience in the Swampy Jungles of Sumatra.

Dr. Andries Verhagen of Batavia, Java, was directed by the government of the Netherlands to go to the eastern end of Sumatra to study a terrible epidemic of beriberi which had broken out there. The ship in which he sailed was wrecked, and he and a young assistant offered to go into the interior to seek assistance.

For about ten minutes they struggled through a dense and swampy jungle. Suddenly the younger man cried out with pain. Going to his aid, Dr. Verhagen noticed three leeches attached to his arm. They were of a venomous variety that cling to the lower branches of the bushes awaiting their prey and, not content with gorging themselves on blood, inject into the wound a poison that causes acute pain.

While Dr. Verhagen was helping his assistant innumerable leeches attached themselves to his face and neck. To free him from them the young man had to scrape his skin with a sharp stone. Exhausted by loss of blood, the doctor managed to crawl back to the wreck of the ship, where he fainted. He was taken to a hospital the following day, and it was several weeks before he recovered. One of his eyeballs was totally destroyed by the terrible leeches, its socket being left empty.—New York World.

EASILY SATISFIED.

She Didn't Go Visiting Just For What She Got To Eat.

"Now, don't put yourself out on my account," said Aunt Sereida Benn, as she untied her bonnet strings after arriving without previous warning at the home of Aunt Jane Jory.

"You know me well enough, Jane, to know that when I go a-visiting it ain't for what I get to eat. If you just stir up one of your 'lection cakes, an' make one of your raisin pies an' a pan of your cream tartar biscuits, an' fry a chicken, an' have a little cranberry sauce with it, an' mebbe a glass of your grape or currant jelly an' a little of your watermelon preserve, an' then make a pot of coffee an' put on a few doughnuts, I'll git along all right without another thing, unless you'd like to bake some of your Greening apples. They go rather good with roast chicken."

"I'm thankful I ain't one of the kind that visits only for what they git to eat. Older I grow, the less I care for what's set before me when I go visiting. How did your pickled come out you told me you was going to make? I deno but I'd like a little mite at dinner to see if the reset worked as well with you as it did with me."—Judge.

A Scorpion.

"I took my first typscript—get that?—typscript to a manager who happens to be a friend of mine," said an aspiring dramatist. "I discovered that managers have an irreverent incredulity combined with a scorpion's sarcasm."

"You wrote a play?" he marvelled. "Who told you?"

"I wrote it on my own initiative," I answered stiffly. "Nobody would ever write a play if people waited to be told."

"It is easy, not difficult, to write a play," I argued. "It is as easy as falling off a log."

"He read the play and sent it back with a scrawl on the title page as follows: 'Compared with writing such a play as this it would be totally impossible to fall off a log.'"—New York Times.

POWELL ASKS FOR COUNSEL

Wants State Attorney to Defend a State Fiscal Official

FIGHT FOR AUTO LICENSE FEES

Auditor General Warns Governor That Attorney General Seeks to Open the Doors of the State Treasury for All Kinds of Illegal Transactions as in Former Years.

Harrisburg, May 14—Auditor General Powell has appealed to Governor Teator to review Attorney General Bell's refusal to assign Deputy Attorney General Cunningham to represent him in the highway mandamus suits or to permit him to employ counsel out of the special fund allowed the attorney general for such purposes.

"I am loth to believe," he writes, "that as chief executive officer of the commonwealth you would approve the action of this member of your executive staff. Certain I am that your sense of fairness will not compel the fiscal officers of the commonwealth to go undefended or to pay counsel out of their private purses,—which in my case, at least, is a very slender one."

Open Way to Corruption.

Powell encloses copies of his letter to Bell and of the latter's refusal to grant the request. In reply to Bell's declaration that the auditor general's objections to the highway department's requisitions are "purely technical and dilatory," he warns the governor that Bell is trying to write "into the law of the commonwealth a pernicious principle which will come back to plague this and future administrations" — meaning that if the suits succeed the safeguards against reckless or unauthorized expenditure of the state funds will be torn down and the doors to corruption will be thrown as widely open as in the days when the four-million-dollar capitol was furnished at a cost of nine millions.

Money Not Yet Due.

The governor's attention is directed to the fact that the newest mandamus suit seeks to compel the immediate payment of an amount that is not due until May 20, under the contract, and to the fact that the act of July 18, 1913, set aside the opinion given by Bell to Auditor General Sisson on January 24, 1912, by declaring that "owing to lack of specific authorization the said moneys (automobile license fees) have not been available to the highway department." Powell holds this was an expression of legislative intention that no only is of later date than any other highway appropriation act but that cuts the ground entirely from beneath the attorney general's position in relation to any opinion he may have rendered Auditor General Sisson.

ONE VIEW OF SLEEP.

Likened to the Freezing of Water in a Pond or Bowl.

The approach of sleep is much like the freezing of water in a pond or bowl. Faint spiracles dart from the side; moles and dots, barely perceptible, swim in the midst. One might imagine the process not less grateful to the long unsheltered brain, for as the one desires for the time being to be defended from that thought which is its own component essence, so might the other seek a coat proof against the plunge of an icicle, formed of a like element. Slight agitation, applied with judgment, will help the matter on. The introduction of a finger will sometimes change a bowl of congealing water to a solid mass. A bit of ice slid in at the proper moment will help on the water's freezing, and so will thinking on your latest dream help to induce slumber.

Transparent and cold as are ice and sleep nothing will keep brain and water safer and warmer. All glances from them and naught stirs up mind or mood. The parallel holds to the last, for nothing can more resemble the rude awakening of a slumber than the sudden breaking of ice, and nothing is more like a gradual and pleasant awakening than the melting thaw where beginning and end are alike indiscernible.—C. E. D. Phelps in "A Farmer's Notebook."

E. W. Gray, secretary, treasurer of the DuBois Courier, gave this office a pleasant call Monday.

REPUBLICAN UNITY.

Newspapers which still incline to
the belief that Senator Penrose is
the greatest statesman Pennsylvania
ever produced assert that the era of a united Republican party is
at hand. What kind of pipes the editors of these papers have been smoking we do not know, but if they can
see unity and harmony in the ranks
of the old Republican party their vision must be brilliantly illuminated
with hashish or some other drug.

Never again will the thousands of
voters who rebelled against Penrose-
ism in 1912 return to the Republican party. It is useless for the friends of Penrose to plead with these voters
to return to the fold, for they broke
loose from grange rule two years ago
and have seen nothing in the course
pursued by the Penrose machine
since to convince them that Pen-
rose and his henchmen have any intention of reforming.

In their attempts to win back to the Republican ranks the men who
are now loyal to the Washington
party the Penrose lieutenants set forth no other plea than that the offices should be held by the Republicans. There is no attempt to conceal the fact that the Penrose people are thinking only of the spoils
of office, not of the welfare of the people. That is one reason why the Washington party voters will refuse
to support Penrose this fall, if he
is nominated.

POWELL'S STAND.

Auditor General Powell is not opposed to good roads. He wants the highways of the state improved, as
other citizens do. But the auditor
general does not want the state treasury raided in order that the highway
commission may make the roads goo.
He is willing to pay over the money
paid into the state treasury in automobile license fees, provided the legal course is pursued in the matter.
He does not believe that these fees
can be paid to the highway commission without action by the state legislature.

The people have approved the auditor general's stand in this matter,
because they believe he is right. It is the duty of the auditor general to see that no money is paid out of the
state treasury except upon legal warrant. He believes that a warrant turning over to Bigelow money collected
from automobile license fees would
be illegal, and he would not refuse to
authorize the payment of this money
if he did not believe that such a
course would be contrary to law
and that it would open the treasury
doors to all kinds of illegal transactions.

Two weeks have elapsed since
James Knox Polk Hall declared that he was out of politics, and yet the

Democratic party seems to be moving along in the old-fashioned way.

If the good people of this town
were to combine they could induce
council to adopt a curfew law and
start a great reform movement in Clearfield.

Penrose saw some Republicans
when he was here on his first trip.
Possibly he is coming back to consult with the Penrose Democrats.

Clearfield never made a better investment than when it induced the
silk velvet mill to come here.

Clearfield county is a pretty tough
place for retail liquor dealers to try
to run the political machinery.

In the meantime, are all of the
back lots in this town in a cleanly
condition?

Hall in May is a novelty, and also
a nuisance to the early gardener.

Fox and Gibbon.

When the furniture of Charles James
Fox, the famous English orator and
statesman, was sold by auction, there
was among the books a copy of the first volume of Gibbon's Roman history. It appeared by the title page
that the book had been presented by
the author to Fox, but no considerations of sentiment deterred the recipient from writing on the fly leaf this
anecdote:

"The author at Brooks' said there
was no salvation for this country until six heads of the principal persons
in administration were laid on the table. Eleven days after this same gentleman accepted a place of lord of
trade, under those very ministers, and
has acted with them ever since."

Such was the avidity of bidders anxious to secure the least scrap of the
writing and composition of the famous owner of the copy that owing to
the addition of this little record the
book sold for 3 guineas, a large sum
for the times.

Got the Officials Moving.

An East Indian babu railway agent
telegraphed to his superintendent this report: "A blackguard indigenous mendicant arrived at my station by 2
down-mail. Taking pity on his com-
miserated condition, I permitted him
to reside in the shade of the main signal post. In gratitude for my bene-

cent conduct he absconded during the nocturnal period with 500Rs. of my private cash, including one copy of the working time table." When asked
why he added the one anna publication, the time table, in his list of losses
he replied, with a knowing wriggle:
"Ha, ha! The matter is explainable
in a nutshell. Unless I had included a little of the company's property the
police would have taken no notice.
This justifies the addition of the lac-
tucous particle in the shell of the coccanut!"—Exchange.

Seals and Music.

A picturesque instance of the ex-
citability of the seal, or possibly of its fondness for music, is told by the Rev. Mr.
Dunbar in Macgillivray's work on British quadrupeds.

"During a residence of some years in
one of the Hebrides I had many opportunities to witness this peculiarity.
As I walked along the shore in the
calm of a summer afternoon a few
notes from my flute would bring half
a score of them within a few yards of
me, and then they would swim about
with their heads above water, like so
many black dogs, evidently delighted
with the sounds. For half an hour or indeed, for any length of time I chose,
I could fix them to the spot, and when
I moved along the water's edge they
would follow me like the dolphins

Pump Anchors.
A pump is a queer sort of anchor, but it has been found to be the best kind of an anchor for a sandy bottom. The anchor consists of a heavy piece of metal with a hole down through the center and a tube from this hole to the ship so that water can be pumped from the ship down through the tube and out of the bottom of the metal mass. When this anchor drops to the sandy bottom and the pump is started it makes quicksand of the material round it so that it sinks in deep. When the pumping stops the sand hardens and holds the anchor. To raise the anchor it is necessary only to start pumping again and loosen the sand—Saturday Evening Post.

Diagnosis by Electricity.
For the benefit of the nervous cases that come to the doctor it has been asserted that it is just as necessary to know how emotional they are as it is to know how high the temperature is in a case of fever. Moreover, in many cases, it is necessary to find out what experiences in the past or present life of the patient produce emotions. For this purpose the patient sits at ease with hands on the electrodes, which may be so concealed in the arms of his chair that he is unaware that the most intimate processes of his soul are being registered as various words are spoken or various topics of conversation are discussed. TAMPICO HELD BY THE REBELS

Captured After Bloodiest Battle of Revolution

HUNDREDS KILLED IN FIGHT

Desperate Fighting in the Streets — Huerta's Forces Make Determined Resistance, but Are Compelled to Evacuate Place — Gigantic Army Movement in New York—Transports Being Loaded.

Vera Cruz, May 14—Tampico, after thirty-six hours of fighting, has fallen into the hands of the rebels. The end came yesterday afternoon when the rebel infantry led by General Gonzalez, made a general assault upon the city from the suburbs, which they captured earlier in the day. Hand to hand fighting in the streets followed during which hundreds fell. It is not known what the casualties were, but they surely run into a horrifying total. The defenders finally withdrew from the city, leaving a small force to cover their retreat. It was reported that the rebels overtook the main body of the federalists in retreat, causing them to flee into the Panuco river, where many drowned. General Zaragoza, the federal commander, is reported to have escaped.

News of Fall Confirmed.

Washington, May 14—Tampico has fallen. Final confirmation of the evacuation of the federal stronghold after many weeks of fighting came to the navy department last night in dispatches from Admiral Mayo and forwarded here by General Badger. Mayo stated his informants came to his flag ship nine miles from the city, bringing the news that the federalists had withdrawn by railroad late yesterday. Other dispatches state the rebels assaulted the town at 1 P. M., fighting their way to the main plaza, where they met stubborn resistance from the federalists, who made their final stand in the abandoned Southern hotel, where sharpshooters from behind pillars picked off scores of rebels and halted the advance some time. The federal gunboats Bravo and Seargoza, after standing by to cover the evacuation, dropped down the river and anchored near the foreign war ships.

Must Crush Huerta.

Representatives of the United States in coming mediation proceedings held a conference with the secretary of the state department yesterday and received their credentials. It has been ascertained beyond question that the American representatives have been advised that the one condition for final settlement with Huerta is that he step down and out. This Huerta has frequently declared he will not do. The war cloud is not diminishing and there still remain several questions of national honor to be settled before the mediator can get down to the main proposition before them.

Gigantic Army Movement.

New York, May 14—An army movement of gigantic proportions was announced here yesterday, when 20,000 rounds of rifle ammunition, huge quantities of artillery shells, tons of supplies and 12,000 tons of storage for horses and mules were ordered from the army reserve base on Governors Islands here to Galveston, Texas. Last night, hundreds of men under electric light were loading two transports, City of Memphis, and Minnesota, which had steam up, all ready and were expected to leave some time today.

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY

Great Desire to See "Ita" Perform Her Wonderful Mental Feats.

"Ita" is in Clearfield this week. Around town you hear more discussion about the young mentalist who is appearing at the opera house this week than you do about court news and the circus combined. Last night the opera house was packed, before 8 o'clock, every seat and available space permitted by law being filled, and it was estimated that between 500 and 800 were refused admission. As Ita's engagement progresses she becomes more mystifying and fascinating and her remarkable answers to questions border on the supernatural.

Last night she gave her performance standing in the midst of the audience in order to show that no stage mechanism, wires, etc., are used. Carvette, the acrobat, and the feature picture, "Ludile Love," were also highly entertaining.

THE CIRCUS TOMORROW

Jones Bros. and Wilson's Shows Will Be in Clearfield Tomorrow

The intense passion for original production and infinite detail, at any cost of time, talent or money, are common place knowledge among all well informed amusement goers. J. Augustus Jones, E. H. Jones and H. G. Wilson, are offering to the public Jones Bros. and Wilson's Wild Animal circus, will outstrip all other competitors in novelty of production and elaborate presentation, thereby setting a pace all other amusement enterprises will find extremely difficult in equalling.

They have stopped at nothing which would add, be it ever so imperceptibly, to the verisimilitude of scenery, settings or the realistic effects of human activity in the vast arena, or to the significant comprehensive equipment for a notable production of many new and novel ideas never before presented to the amusement going public.

This brilliant and remarkable succession of innumerable and heretofore unknown wonders, is found in two distinct departments, one representing domestic trained animals, and the other trained wild animals, consisting of lions, leopards, tigers, elephants, bears, wolves, hyenas, zebras etc., comprising what is beyond question the most valuable collection of wild beast inn existence.

The most valuable wild animal in the world is embraced in this collection. A midget Hippopotamus, the first one ever brought to this country. Jones Bros. and Wilson's show are indeed fortunate in securing one of these much sought after attractions. This circus will exhibit in Clearfield tomorrow (Friday).

Long Drawn Out Case.

The case of Beyer & Co. vs. Mrs. Ella J. Mountz, began in civil court Monday, dragged through the following two days and is expected to be given to the jury this afternoon. Beyer & Co. sued Mrs. Mountz on a contract for repainting and remodeling her house at Smithmill, the company's bill amounting to $3000.

True Hospitality.

I pray you, O excellent wife, not to cumber yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man or this woman who has alighted at our gate, nor a bedchamber made ready at too great a cost. These things, if they are curious in, they can get for a dollar at any village. But let this stranger, if he will, in your looks, in your accent and behavior, read your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, which he cannot buy at any price in any village or city, after which he may well travel fifty miles and dine sparingly and sleep hard in order to behold. Certainly, let the board be spread and let the bed be dressed for the traveler, but let not the emphasis of hospitality lie in these things. Honor to the house where they are simple to the verge of hardship, so that there the intellect is awake and reads the laws of the universe.—Emerson.

Astors in China.

Music as a profession is not now regarded as wholly reputable, but it is common to hear men singing snatches of theater songs as they go along the streets or country lanes, and amateur instrumentalists are many both among the poor and the better educated classes. We listened once, almost entranced, to a boatman on the inner waters of the Chekiang province declaiming with clear, strong voice and tune and rhythm for more than an hour at night a poem of short cantos in praise of Buddha. • • • It is a common thing at Peking, the chief home of actors, to see a man standing with his face against the city wall and yelling like one demented. He is an actor practicing his part and strengthening his voice.—Moule's "The Chinese People."

LOCAL BANKS IN NEW SYSTEM

Both Clearfield Institutions in Big Company

THEY ARE LISTED IN CLASS A

Only Banks Whose Combined Capital and Surplus Exceeds $190,000 Come in That Class—Other Banks in This Vicinity Are in Federal District No. 3.

The Philadelphia clearing house banks on Monday made another nomination, Joseph Moore, Jr., president of the National bank of Northern Liberties, being unanimously chosen. Last week Charles Rhoads, vice president and treasurer of the Girard Trust company, and Alba B. Johnson were nominated.

All the national banks in the district which have a combined capital and surplus exceeding $190,000 will come in that class. This will take in banks from all the large towns in federal district No. 3.

Below are some of the names of banks in the class of Philadelphia banks:

BALLOTS ARE READY

They Will Be Apportioned and Sent Out at Once.

The last of the 80,000 ballots which will be used at the primary election next Tuesday were delivered to the county commissioners this morning, and as quickly as possible the several districts of the county will be supplied with their allotted number of ballots.

As the primary election will be held next Tuesday the time within which the ballots must be distributed is short, but they will be found at the various polls next Tuesday morning.

Saved by Artificial Breathing.

Dr. S. F. Derionjinsky, a Russian surgeon, reports the case of a peasant of twenty-one who, following an attack of probably diphtheritic origin, was stricken with paralysis. After two weeks of total paralysis some movements of the arms appeared, but a few days later respiratory trouble began. The breathing rose to forty to the minute and became superficial, with momentary stops. It was necessary to resort to artificial respiration. With the assistance of pupils in the primary school this was kept up day and night from Feb. 5 to Feb. 20. On the latter day the patient began breathing naturally, but difficulty in swallowing arose about the same time. On Feb. 28 it became necessary to begin artificial respiration again. This was maintained until March 1, when natural breathing returned, and the patient recovered.

Thackeray's Criticism.

In "Bar, Bat and Bit," by the Hon. Sir Edward Chaudes Leigh, is the following Thackeray story: Thackeray and others were great frequenters of Evans', in Covent Garden, kept by Paddy Green, where the most beautiful glee used to be sung. There was a little coterie there, and I was honored by being allowed to join that coterie. We used to devour chops baked potatoes and other adjuncts to a homely supper after the theater. One night I found Thackeray alone at the table when up came a small, obsequious gentleman, who rubbed his hands together and addressed Thackeray with the most fulsome compliments. When he passed on I said to Thackeray, "Pray tell me who is that?" His answer was, "He calls himself an artist, but he paints as much in butter as he does in oil."

A Private Dance.

THEY'RE FOR MILLER

Political Gathering Held at the Dime-ling Wednesday Afternoon.

There was a political gathering of some significance in Clearfield Wednesday, at which men of various occupations were to be seen. It is said that the meeting was called in the interests of Dr. S. J. Miller, of Madera, Republican candidate for state senator.

It is evident that all is not smooth sailing in the Republican ranks, and the conference yesterday may or not have its influence on the primaries next Tuesday, but it is sure to leave some sore spots in the Republican party.

EIGHTH YEAR

Closing Recital of the Susquehanna College of Music.

On Tuesday, May 19, at 8:15 o'clock the advanced pupils of the Susquehanna College of Music will give the closing recital of the school year. The pupils will be assisted by the faculty, and a program of beautiful compositions has been prepared for this occasion.

Prof. H. Clark Thayer, director of the college, cordially invites the citizens to attend this recital, which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

VENOMOUS LEECHES.

A Perilous Experience in the Swampy Jungles of Sumatra.

Dr. Andries Verhagen of Batavia, Java, was directed by the government of the Netherlands to go to the eastern end of Sumatra to study a terrible epidemic of beriberi which had broken out there. The ship in which he sailed was wrecked, and he and a young assistant offered to go into the interior to seek assistance.

For about two minutes they struggled through a dense and swampy jungle. Suddenly the younger man cried out with pain. Going to his aid, Dr. Verhagen noticed three leeches attached to his arm. They were of a venomous variety that cling to the lower branches of the bushes awaiting their prey and, not content with gorging themselves on blood, inject into the wound a poison that causes acute pain.

While Dr. Verhagen was helping his assistant innumerable leeches attached themselves to his face and neck. To free him from them the young man had to scrape his skin with a sharp stone. Exhausted by loss of blood, the doctor managed to crawl back to the wreck of the ship, where he fainted. He was taken to a hospital the following day, and it was several weeks before he recovered. One of his eyeballs was totally destroyed by the terrible leeches, its socket being left empty.—New York World.

EASILY SATISFIED.

She Didn't Go Visiting Just For What She Got To Eat.

"Now, don't put yourself out on my account," said Aunt Sereida Benn, as she untied her bonnet strings after arriving without previous warning at the home of Aunt Jane Jory.

"You know me well enough, Jane, to know that when I go a-visiting it ain't for what I get to eat. If you just stir up one of your 'lection cakes, an' make one of your raisin pies an' a pan of your cream tartar biscuits, an' fry a chicken, an' have a little cranberry sauce with it, an' mebbe a glass of your grape or currant jelly an' a little of your watermelon preserve, an' then make a pot of coffee an' put on a few doughnuts, I'll git along all right without no other thing, unless you'd like to bake some of your Greening apples. They go rather good with roast chicken."

"I'm thankful I ain't one of the kind that visits only for what they git to eat. Older I grow, the less I care for what's set before me when I go visiting. How did your pickled come out you told me you was going to make? I deno but I'd like a little mite at dinner to see if the reset worked as well with you as it did with me."—Judge.

A Scorpion.

"I took my first typscript—get that?—typscript to a manager who happens to be a friend of mine," said an aspiring dramatist. "I discovered that managers have an irreverent incredulity combined with a scorpion's sarcasm."

"You wrote a play?" he marvelled.

"Who told you?"

"I wrote it on my own initiative," I answered stiffly. "Nobody would ever write a play if people waited to be told."

"I would not do anything so difficult as write a play unless I was forced," declared the manager.

"It is easy, not difficult, to write a play," I argued. "It is as easy as falling off a log."

"He read the play and sent it back with a scrawl on the title page as follows: 'Compared with writing such a play as this it would be totally impossible to fall off a log.'—New York Times.

POWELL ASKS FOR COUNSEL

Wants State Attorney to Defend a State Fiscal Official

FIGHT FOR AUTO LICENSE FEES

Auditor General Warns Governor That Attorney General Seeks to Open the Doors of the State Treasury for All Kinds of Illegal Transactions as in Former Years.

Harrisburg, May 14—Auditor General Powell has appealed to Governor Teator to review Attorney General Bell's refusal to assign Deputy Attorney General Cunningham to represent him in the highway mandamus suits or to permit him to employ counsel out of the special fund allowed the attorney general for such purposes.

"I am loth to believe," he writes, "that as chief executive officer of the commonwealth you would approve the action of this member of your executive staff. Certain I am that your sense of fairness will not compel the fiscal officers of the commonwealth to go undefended or to pay counsel out of their private purses,—which in my case, at least, is a very slender one."

Open Way to Corruption.

Powell encloses copies of his letter to Bell and of the latter's refusal to grant the request. In reply to Bell's declaration that the auditor general's objections to the highway department's requisitions are "purely technical and dilatory," he warns the governor that Bell is trying to write "into the law of the commonwealth a pernicious principle which will come back to plague this and future administrations" — meaning that if the suits succeed the safeguards against reckless or unauthorized expenditure of the state funds will be torn down and the doors to corruption will be thrown as widely open as in the days when the four-million-dollar capitol was furnished at a cost of nine millions.

Money Not Yet Due.

The governor's attention is directed to the fact that the newest mandamus suit seeks to compel the immediate payment of an amount that is not due until May 20, under the contract, and to the fact that the act of July 18, 1913, set aside the opinion given by Bell to Auditor General Sisson on January 24, 1912, by declaring that "owing to lack of specific authorization the said moneys (automobile license fees) have not been available to the highway department." Powell holds this was an expression of legislative intention that no only is of later date than any other highway appropriation act but that cuts the ground entirely from beneath the attorney general's position in relation to any opinion he may have rendered Auditor General Sisson.

ONE VIEW OF SLEEP.

Likened to the Freezing of Water in a Pond or Bowl.

The approach of sleep is much like the freezing of water in a pond or bowl. Faint spiracles dart from the side; moles and dots, barely perceptible, swim in the midst. One might imagine the process not less grateful to the long unsheltered brain, for as the one desires for the time being to be defended from that thought which is its own component essence, so might the other seek a coat proof against the plunge of an icicle, formed of a like element. Slight agitation, applied with judgment, will help the matter on. The introduction of a finger will sometimes change a bowl of congealing water to a solid mass. A bit of ice slid in at the proper moment will help on the water's freezing, and so will thinking on your latest dream help to induce slumber.

Transparent and cold as are ice and sleep nothing will keep brain and water safer and warmer. All glances from them and naught stirs up mind or mood. The parallel holds to the last, for nothing can more resemble the rude awakening of a slumber than the sudden breaking of ice, and nothing is more like a gradual and pleasant awakening than the melting thaw where beginning and end are alike indiscernible.—C. E. D. Phelps in "A Farmer's Notebook."

E. W. Gray, secretary, treasurer of the DuBois Courier, gave this office a pleasant call Monday.

West Side, and will move the old house now on the lot to the rear and erect two handsome dwellings on the front of the lot.

WHY?

Why cannot the farmers of Clearfield county raise all the vegetables
that are consumed in Clearfield borough?

Good evening! The eye of imagination can see the sun shining behind the clouds.

REPUBLICAN UNITY.

Newspapers which still incline to
the belief that Senator Penrose is
the greatest statesman Pennsylvania
ever produced assert that the
era of a united Republican party is
at hand. What kind of pipes the editors of these papers have been smoking we do not know, but if they can
see unity and harmony in the ranks
of the old Republican party their vision must be brilliantly illuminated
with hashish or some other drug.

Never again will the thousands of
voters who rebelled against Penrose-
ism in 1912 return to the Republican party. It is useless for the friends of Penrose to plead with these voters
to return to the fold, for they broke
loose from grange rule two years ago
and have seen nothing in the course
pursued by the Penrose machine
since to convince them that Pen-
rose and his henchmen have any intention of reforming.

In their attempts to win back to
the Republican ranks the men who
are now loyal to the Washington
party the Penrose lieutenants set
forth no other plea than that the offices should be held by the Republicans. There is no attempt to conceal the fact that the Penrose people are thinking only of the spoils
of office, not of the welfare of the people. That is one reason why the
Washington party voters will refuse
to support Penrose this fall, if he
is nominated.

POWELL'S STAND.

Auditor General Powell is not opposed to good roads. He wants the
highways of the state improved, as
other citizens do. But the auditor
general does not want the state treasury raided in order that the highway
commission may make the roads goo.
He is willing to pay over the money
paid into the state treasury in automobile license fees, provided the legal course is pursued in the matter.
He does not believe that these fees
can be paid to the highway commission without action by the state legislature.

The people have approved the auditor general's stand in this matter,
because they believe he is right. It
is the duty of the auditor general to
see that no money is paid out of the
state treasury except upon legal warrant. He believes that a warrant turning over to Bigelow money collected
from automobile license fees would
be illegal, and he would not refuse to
authorize the payment of this money
if he did not believe that such a
course would be contrary to law
and that it would open the treasury
doors to all kinds of illegal transactions.

Two weeks have elapsed since
James Knox Polk Hall declared that
he was out of politics, and yet the

Democratic party seems to be moving along in the old-fashioned way.

If the good people of this town
were to combine they could induce
council to adopt a curfew law and
start a great reform movement in Clearfield.

Penrose saw some Republicans
when he was here on his first trip.
Possibly he is coming back to consult with the Penrose Democrats.

Clearfield never made a better investment than when it induced the
silk velvet mill to come here.

Clearfield county is a pretty tough
place for retail liquor dealers to try
to run the political machinery.

In the meantime, are all of the
back lots in this town in a cleanly
condition?

Hall in May is a novelty, and also
a nuisance to the early gardener.

Fox and Gibbon.

When the furniture of Charles James
Fox, the famous English orator and
statesman, was sold by auction, there
was among the books a copy of the
first volume of Gibbon's Roman history. It appeared by the title page
that the book had been presented by
the author to Fox, but no considerations of sentiment deterred the recipient from writing on the fly leaf this
anecdote:

"The author at Brooks' said there
was no salvation for this country until six heads of the principal persons
in administration were laid on the table. Eleven days after this same gentleman accepted a place of lord of
trade, under those very ministers, and
has acted with them ever since."

Such was the avidity of bidders anxious to secure the least scrap of the
writing and composition of the famous owner of the copy that owing to
the addition of this little record the
book sold for 3 guineas, a large sum
for the times.

Got the Officials Moving.

An East Indian babu railway agent
telegraphed to his superintendent this
report: "A blackguard indigenous men-
dicant arrived at my station by 2
down mail. Taking pity on his com-
miserated condition, I permitted him
to reside in the shade of the main signal post. In gratitude for my bene-

cent conduct he absconded during the
nocturnal period with 500Rs. of my
private cash, including one copy of the
working time table." When asked
why he added the one anna publication, the time table, in his list of losses
he replied, with a knowing wriggle:
"Ha, ha! The matter is explainable
in a nutshell. Unless I had included a little of the company's property the
police would have taken no notice.
This justifies the addition of the lac-
tucosa particle in the shell of the cocca-
nut!"—Exchange.

Seals and Music.

A picturesque instance of the ex-
citability of the seal, or possibly of its fondness for music, is told by the Rev. Mr.
Dunbar in Macgillivray's work on
British quadrupeds.

"During a residence of some years in
one of the Hebrides I had many opportunities to witness this peculiarity.
As I walked along the shore in the
calm of a summer afternoon a few
notes from my flute would bring half
a score of them within a few yards of
me, and then they would swim about
with their heads above water, like so
many black dogs, evidently delighted
with the sounds. For half an hour or
indeed, for any length of time I chose,
I could fix them to the spot, and when
I moved along the water's edge they
would follow me like the dolphins
which, it is said, attended Arion."

Pump Anchors.
A pump is a queer sort of anchor, but it has been found to be the best kind of an anchor for a sandy bottom. The anchor consists of a heavy piece of metal with a hole down through the center and a tube from this hole to the ship so that water can be pumped from the ship down through the tube and out of the bottom of the metal mass. When this anchor drops to the sandy bottom and the pump is started it makes quicksand of the material round it so that it sinks in deep. When the pumping stops the sand hardens and holds the anchor. To raise the anchor it is necessary only to start pumping again and loosen the sand—Saturday Evening Post.

Diagnosis by Electricity.
For the benefit of the nervous cases that come to the doctor it has been asserted that it is just as necessary to know how emotional they are as it is to know how high the temperature is in a case of fever. Moreover, in many cases, it is necessary to find out what experiences in the past or present life of the patient produce emotions. For this purpose the patient sits at ease with hands on the electrodes, which may be so concealed in the arms of his chair that he is unaware that the most intimate processes of his soul are being registered as various words are spoken or various topics of conversation are discussed. The galvanometer showing when a sensitive subject has been touched—Herald Magazine.
